Saturday in History.

May 21, 1903, President Roosevelt assisted at the laying of the cornerstone of the monument at Portland, Oregon, to the memory of Lewis and Clark. These intrepid explorers were the pioneers in making known the vast extent and wonderful future resources of the western portion of our country. It was during the early part of Jefferson's first administration that they were commissioned to set out on their expedition. They traversed the country toward the north-west, defying difficulties and meeting with many romantic adventures. In 1805 and 1806 they made extensive explorations in Oregon and this was an important fact in the contention of the United States on the northwestern boundary dispute in 1844, when "all of Oregon or none" was a watch word, and "fifty-four, forty or fight" could be heard at every political gathering. The reports of Lewis and Clark when they returned from their expedition, caused great interest to be taken in the territory that lay to the westward. Far-sighted statesmen saw the possibilities and needs of the future. A new era of development began and the United States has never neglected an honorable opportunity of acquiring new territory.

Indians Beat the Cadets.

The Haskell Indians easily defeated the Wentworth base ball team Tuesday afternoon on the Academy campus by a score of seven to two. A large crowd of local fans augmented by the commencement visitors witnessed the game. The playing started off in great shape and neither side scored until the fifth, when the Indians got two men on bases and Bebeau cleaned the field with a home run, one of the Indians' four hits. In the ninth the cadet infield went to pieces and the visitors ran in five more. The cadets scored one in the sixth and one in the seventh. The one redeeming feature of the "cadets' play was the work of the battery. Batteries—Wentworth, Wilson C. and Mitchell; Indians—Eofthard and Means. Umpire Shinn.

GREAT LACK IN BEDS

Will Take Forty-five Years at Present Rate to Care for all Consumptives.

At the present rate of increase, nearly forty-five years must elapse before sufficient hospital accommodations to provide for all the indigent consumptives in the United States will be provided, declares the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in a bulletin issued today.

Although over 7,000 beds in hospitals, sanatoria, camps, and wards for tuberculous patients were established last year, there are fully 300,000 indigent consumptives who ought to be placed in such institutions and a total of only 22,720 beds in the entire country. On May 1, 1909, there were 15,244 beds for consumptives and 294 institutions. The annual report of the National Association shows an increase of 99 institutions and 7,500 beds.

In seven states, Alabama, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Oklahoma, Wyoming, and Utah, with a combined population of over 5,000,000, not one bed for consumptives has been provided. In nine states and territories, Alaska, Delaware, Florida, Kansas, Mississippi, South Carolina, South Dakota, Vermont and West Virginia, the number of beds for consumptives in each case is less than 50, while the combined population of these states is over 7,000,000. On the basis of 400 deaths to a million of population, which is approximately the present rate in the United States, there would be nearly 5,000 deaths annually from tuberculosis in these fourteen states with at least 20,000 cases of this disease all the time, and less than 500 beds to care for them.

New York state leads in the number of beds for consumptives; provided up to May 1st with 5,476 beds; Massachusetts is second with 2,403 beds; Pennsylvania, third with 2,347 beds; Colorado, fourth with 1,489 beds; and New Mexico fifth with 1,104 beds. As yet, not one state in the country has made adequate provision for its consumptives. New York has set itself the task of having "No uncare-for Tuberculosis in 1915," and several cities in other parts of the country have adopted similar program. The National Association says that tuberculosis will not be stamped out until all cases of this disease are cared for either in their homes or in institutions. With this end in view, efforts will be made to increase the number of hospital beds in this country to at least 35,000 by May 1, 1911.
